Virtual Symposium: A New Generation of Human Security

Dates: 8-11 June 2021

Agenda

Tuesday, 8 June, 8:30am - 12:00pm EDT/ 2:30pm – 6:00pm CET

Location: Virtual

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Session</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>8:30-8:40am</td>
<td>Opening remarks&lt;br&gt; - Pedro Conceição, Director Human Development Report Office, UNDP&lt;br&gt;- Senator Keizo Takemi, Member of the House of Councillors of the Japanese Parliament, Co-Chair of the High-Level Advisory Panel for the Special Report on Human Security</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8:40 – 8:45</td>
<td>Framing, introduction, and moderation&lt;br&gt; Heriberto Tapia, Policy Specialist, Human Development Report Office, UNDP</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8:45 -11:10</td>
<td>Presentations and panel discussions&lt;br&gt; Keynote speakers&lt;br&gt; Dr. Shen Xiaomeng, Director of the UNU Institute for Environment and Human Security (UNU-EHS) and UNU Vice-Rector in Europe&lt;br&gt; Dr. Vivienne Ming, Co-founder &amp; Executive Chair, Socos Labs&lt;br&gt; Panellists&lt;br&gt; - Dr. Uma Rani, Senior Economist at the Research Department, International Labour Office (ILO)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Session 1: Structural changes to human security threats – The Anthropocene with lurking pandemics and the Digital Age

During the past decades, most societies have witnessed important structural changes. On the one hand, the planet is changing as a result of constant human pressures. As a consequence, humans are increasingly experiencing unpredictable natural hazards, but they will most likely also be exposed to unknown illnesses or even pandemics. It is not only the constant global warming and its effects on nature, but also the risk of extinction of several species and the depletion and contamination of natural resources that risk long-term food security, health, and sustainable peace and stability. These can be summarized into anthropogenic risks to human security. On the other hand, there are multiple types of threats that have emerged during the digital age, including digital inequality, cyberattacks and data fraud or theft, precarious jobs, and digital power concentration. Since the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic, humanity has relied on technologies more than ever, so that related threats have intensified, leading to increased inequalities and insecurities around the globe.
Session 2: Threats to human security: violent conflicts and crime

In the post-Cold War setting, the innovation of the concept of human security consisted in moving away from national protection towards individual security, emphasizing freedom from want and freedom from fear. Since the 1990s, armed conflicts have increasingly happened within countries instead of between countries, which has reduced traditional tools of coercive diplomacy and deterrence in conflict prevention and resolution, though the threat of nuclear, chemical, and biological warfare has certainly not disappeared. It has also significantly increased the number of civilian casualties with a disproportionate impact on women and children. The consequences of these ‘new wars’ put human security at risk world-wide, as they can be a source of tension at borders, cause displacement and refugee crises, and constitute breeding grounds for terrorism. Another form of violence that has been threatening human security for decades is organized crime, including street/gang violence, that has led to a significant number of homicides in some countries. In some parts of the world, this is a threat that brings violence directly to peoples’ front doors and can thus significantly increase the perception of insecurity.
Panellists
- Dr. Toby Ord, Senior Research Fellow in Philosophy at Oxford University
- Mr. Koji Makino, Deputy Director, JICA Ogata Sadako Research Institute for Peace and Development, Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA)
- Mr. Joaquin Salido Marcos, Programme Management Officer, Conflict Prevention and Governance Cluster, United Nations Regional Commission for Western Asia (UN-ESCWA) and Mrs. Manuella Nehme, Consultant on Conflict and Human Development, UN-ESCWA
- Prof. Andreas Feldmann, Associate Professor, Department of Political Science University of Illinois at Chicago
- Dr. Joana Monteiro, Head of the Center for Applied Research to Public Safety, Getulio Vargas Foundation, Rio de Janeiro

10:35 - 10:40 Break
10:40 – 11:30 Open discussion
- Audience questions and answers (Q&A)
- Wrap up and take-away points by moderators

Thursday, 10 June, 8:30am - 11:30am EDT/ 2:30pm - 5:30pm CET
Location: Virtual

Session 3: Human insecurity as a threat to human development

Most forms of human insecurities threaten progress in human development. This session will take a deep dive into how some of these threats are interlinked and reinforcing. Topics include economic security, public health, domestic violence, and inequalities, especially horizontal inequalities that affect women, ethnic groups, LGBTI people, and people with disabilities, among others. Established historical analysis as well as recent protests around the world have shown that horizontal inequalities, which often go hand in hand with discrimination and/or political polarization, can trigger physical violence and even armed conflict. Some of these insecurities have intensified during the Covid-19 pandemic as general tension has built up throughout societies and inequalities have been revealed or even increased. Particular attention will be devoted to threats to human dignity that can further increase human insecurities while diminishing human development.

8:30 – 8:35 Framing, introduction, and moderation
Mr. Yukio Takasu, UNSG Special Adviser on Human Security

8:35 - 10:45 Presentations and panel discussions
Keynote speakers
Prof. Frances Stewart, Professor Emeritus of Development Economics, University of Oxford
Session 4: The way forward: new aspirations and new responses during challenging times

The previous sessions have shown that threats to human security have become much more complex during the 21st century in the light of a raging pandemic that has put the world on hold for over a year now, but also considering changes in extreme weather and natural disasters, as well as structural changes to the economy and our ways to communicate using new technologies. Within this context, the concept of human security will be revisited together with an overall appraisal of the previous sessions and the aim to identify policy options at the national and international level. Recognizing that no country will be able to solve all threats to human security by itself, the final session will aim at identifying opportunities to cooperate and to respond to people’s aspirations of the 21st century, with the ultimate goal of building stronger and more cohesive societies in the post-Covid-19 era.

Friday, 11 June, 8:30am - 12:00am EDT/ 2:30pm - 6:00pm CET
Location: Virtual

Prof. James Foster, Oliver T. Carr, Jr. Professor of International Affairs, Professor of Economics, and Co-Director of the Institute for International Economic Policy at George Washington University

Panellists
- Prof. Staffan Lindberg, Founding Director of the V-Dem Institute, Department of Political Science, University of Gothenburg
- Dr. Rachel Gisselquist, Senior Research Fellow, United Nations University World Institute for Development Economics Research (UNU-WIDER)
- Dr. Lincoln C. Chen, President Emeritus, China Medical Board, USA
- Dr. Racha Ramadan, Associate Professor at the Economics Department, Faculty of Economics and Political Science (FEPS), Cairo University
- Prof. Siri Rustadt, Research Director, Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO)
- Prof. Oscar A. Gómez, Assistant Professor, College of Asia Pacific Studies, Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University, Beppu, Japan

10:45 - 10:50 Break
10:50 – 11:30 Open discussion
  - Audience questions and answers (Q&A)
  - Wrap up and take-away points by moderators

8:30 – 8:35 Framing, introduction, and moderation
Christina Lengfelder, Research Analyst, Human Development Report Office, UNDP

8:35 - 10:55 Presentations and panel discussions
Keynote speakers
Prof. Anne-Marie Slaughter, CEO of New America and Bert G. Kerstetter ’66 University Professor Emerita of Politics and International Affairs, Princeton University
Prof. Des Gasper, Professor of Human Development, Development Ethics and Public Policy, ISS of Erasmus University Rotterdam

Panellists

- Prof. Anne-Marie Goetz, Clinical Professor, Center for Global Affairs, New York University (NYU)
- Prof. Toshiya Hoshino, Osaka School of International Public Policy, Osaka University
- Ms. Alison Fahey, Interim Executive Director, J-PAL Middle East and North Africa
- Dr. Ambrose Otau Talisuna, MBchB, Msc, DLSHTM, PhD, Regional Advisor International Health Regulations and Global Health Security, World Health Organization (WHO) Regional Office for Africa
- Prof. Shahrbanou Tadjbakhsh, Researcher and Lecturer, Sciences Po, Paris School of International Affairs
- Mr. Pablo Ruiz Hiebra, Senior Peacebuilding Advisor, UNDP Colombia

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>10:55 - 11:00</td>
<td>Break</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00 – 11:50</td>
<td>Open discussion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:50 – 12:00</td>
<td>Final remarks. Closure of Symposium, Pedro Conceição, Director Human Development Report Office, UNDP</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
OPENING REMARKS

Pedro Conceição
Director Human Development Report Office, UNDP

Bio: http://hdr.undp.org/en/content/pedro-concei%C3%A7%C3%A7%C3%A3o

Since 1 January 2019 Pedro has been Director of the Human Development Report Office and lead author of the Human Development Report. Prior to this, Pedro served as Director, Strategic Policy, at the Bureau for Policy and Programme Support (from October 2014), and Chief Economist and Head of the Strategic Advisory Unit at the Regional Bureau for Africa (from 1 December 2009).

Before that, he was Director of the Office of Development Studies (ODS) from March 2007 to November 2009, and Deputy Director of ODS, from October 2001 to February 2007. His work on financing for development and on global public goods was published by Oxford University Press in books he co-edited (The New Public Finance: Responding to Global Challenges, 2006; Providing Global Public Goods: Managing Globalization, 2003).

Prior to coming to UNDP, he was an Assistant Professor at the Instituto Superior Técnico, Technical University of Lisbon, Portugal, teaching and researching on science, technology and innovation policy. He has degrees in Physics from Instituto Superior Técnico and in Economics from the Technical University of Lisbon and a Ph. D. in Public Policy from the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas at Austin, where he studied with a Fulbright scholarship.
Senator Keizo Takemi
Member of the House of Councillors of the Japanese Parliament, Co-Chair of the High-Level Advisory Panel for the Special Report on Human Security

Bio: https://www.jcie.org/bio/keizo-takemi-bio/

Keizo Takemi is a member of the House of Councillors of the Japanese parliament, or Diet, where he belongs to the Liberal Democratic Party. He has been a senior fellow with the Japan Center for International Exchange (JCIE) since 2007, and was a research fellow at the Harvard School of Public Health from November 2007 to June 2009. Also, he is a visiting professor at a number of universities around the country including Keio University and Nagasaki University. In March 2016, he was appointed to the UN High Level Commission on Health Employment and Economic Growth. Professor Takemi served in the House of Councillors from 1995 to 2007 and then returned to the Diet in December 2012. During his previous tenure in the Diet, he served in the first Abe administration’s cabinet as senior vice minister for health, labour and welfare. He led the initiative to establish the UN Trust Fund for Human Security when he was state secretary for foreign affairs in 1999 and was subsequently named by former UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan to serve as a member of the High Level Panel on UN System-Wide Coherence in Areas of Development, Humanitarian Assistance and Environment. Since September 2007, he has been serving as the chair of the Executive Committee of JCIE’s Global Health and Human Security Program, a pioneering public-private partnership on global health that was formerly known as the “Study Group on Challenges in Global Health and Japan’s Contributions.”
FRAMING AND INTRODUCTION

Heriberto Tapia
Policy Specialist, Human Development Report Office, UNDP

Heriberto is a senior member of the writing-research team at HDRO. He has worked on Human Development Reports 2015, 2016 and 2017. Previously, he served in the Executive Office of UNDP (2012-2014) and in the Economic Commission for Latin American and the Caribbean (1998-2005). He has worked as a consultant to the IMF, UNDP and ECLAC. Furthermore, he has been lecturer at Columbia University (New York), University of Chile (Santiago) and University Diego Portales (Santiago). Heriberto holds a Ph.D. in economics from Columbia University, and a Master’s degree in economics and a Commercial Engineering degree from the University of Chile.

President Laura Chinchilla
Former President of Costa Rica and Co-Chair of the High-Leven Advisory Panel for the Special Report on Human Security

Laura Chinchilla Miranda was elected the first female president of the Republic of Costa Rica on February 7, 2010, for a constitutional term of four years. Her election as President of the Republic of Costa Rica was preceded by a successful political career which began with her appointment as Minister of Public Security between 1996 and 1998, thus making her the first woman to hold that position. While in that role, she also served as President of the National Immigration Board and the National Drug Council. Between 2002 and 2006 she was elected member of the National Congress where she chaired the Committee on Legal Affairs and the Committee on Narcotics. In 2006 she was elected Vice President of Costa Rica, assuming office as the Ministry of Justice at the same time. Finally, in 2010 she became president.

Her efforts in the promotion of the rights of women, on the protection of children and on environmental sustainability, especially in the protection of the seas, earned her two important international awards: the “Excellence in National Management of the Ocean” Peter Benchley of 2011, and the “Award of the Shark Guardian of the year “in 2013.
Along with her public career, Chinchilla dedicated part of her professional career to the international sector. She has worked as a consultant in Latin America and Africa with various international organizations in the area of institutional reform, with particular emphasis on judicial and public security reform. Relevant tasks performed include diagnostics on the justice sector for the Agency for International Development (USAID); coordination of studies and projects on judicial reform for the United Nations Program for Development (UNDP) and assessments and advice on police reform to the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB). She has been part of a number of initiatives to promote reforms in citizen security and human rights throughout Latin America.

She has lectured at various forums and has several publications in both Spanish and English on topics related to the administration of justice, public security and police reform. She holds Honorary Doctorates from the University for Peace of the United Nations, Georgetown University, and Kyoto University of Foreign Studies. She also headed the Organization of American State’s Observation Electoral Mission during the 2015 electoral process in México. Also she is inviting professor at the Government School at the Instituto Tecnológico de Monterrey, were she is leading the Latin America Class on Democracy and Citizenship. She is a political scientist and graduated from college at the Universidad de Costa Rica. She also holds a Master in Public Policy from Georgetown University.

Mr. Yukio Takasu
UNSG Special Adviser on Human Security

Bio:

Mr. Takasu was formerly appointed as Special Adviser on Human Security in 2010, a role which he concurrently undertook during his tenure as Under-Secretary-General for Management (2012-2017).

He will lead the follow-up to the General Assembly resolution (A/RES/66/290) on human security. He will work closely with Member States, in partnership with United Nations system of Organizations and other stakeholders to advance the human security approach in the Agenda 2030, the New York Declaration for Refugees and Migrants, the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction, and the Sustaining Peace Agenda.

Mr. Takasu will lead the United Nations advocacy efforts on mainstreaming human security, advance the implementation of the Framework for Cooperation on the System-wide application of human security approach, advise the Secretary-General on the management of the United Nations Trust Fund on Human Security and future expansion of its donor base, and provide operational guidance to the Human Security Unit. The position is unsalaried.
He has a long and distinguished career related to the United Nations activities in the Government of Japan, the United Nations, and as an academic. He has held several senior diplomatic positions with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan, including Permanent Representative of Japan to the United Nations, and senior positions in the United Nations, including Assistant Secretary-General, Controller of the United Nations.

Mr. Takasu has held academic positions at Harvard University, the University of Tokyo and the Graduate University for Policy Studies in Japan. Mr. Takasu was educated at the University of Tokyo (Faculty of Law) and Oxford University (Merton College).

Christina Lengfelder
Research Analyst, Human Development Report Office, UNDP

Christina Lengfelder is a member of the HDRO’s research team, where she has co-authored global Human Development Reports since 2014. Before joining HDRO, Christina lectured on social policies, international relations, and qualitative & quantitative research methodology in Santiago de Chile. She also worked as a knowledge manager for the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) in Washington D.C., consulted for UN ECLAC in Trinidad and Tobago and Santiago de Chile, and interned with the Mexican Government’s Secretariat for Human Development. Christina comes from a multidisciplinary background, holding a PhD in Political Science (Pontificia Universidad Catolica de Chile) with a focus on development cooperation, research methodology, and international relations. She also earned two master’s degrees, one in International Development Economics (HTW Berlin), and another in Political Science (Pontificia Universidad Catolica de Chile). Her academic career started with a dual bachelor’s degree in International Business Studies (Mexico and Germany). Christina’s research interests lie in human development, multidimensional inequalities, social policies, and, more recently, mental health. She has published her work in several UN publications, book chapters, and peer-reviewed journals.
KEYNOTE SPEAKERS AND PANELLISTS

Dr. Shen Xiaomeng
Director of the UNU Institute for Environment and Human Security (UNU-EHS) and UNU Vice-Rector in Europe
Bio: https://ehs.unu.edu/experts/researchexperts/xiaomeng-shen.html#profile

As of 1 August 2020, Dr. Shen Xiaomeng assumed the role of UNU Vice-Rector in Europe (UNU-ViE) and Director of the UNU Institute for Environment and Human Security (UNU-EHS). As the UNU Vice-Rector in Europe, Dr. Shen facilitates collaboration between UNU and stakeholders in and outside of the United Nations; contributes to high-level policy development with other United Nations entities and regional/national bodies; and guides UNU outreach efforts to Geneva-based UN entities, the European Commission, and European academic and research institutions. As the Director of UNU-EHS, Dr. Shen is the chief academic and administrative officer of the Institute and oversees its direction, organization and programmes.

From 2011 onwards, Dr. Shen worked with the then International Bureau of the German Federal Ministry of Education and Research (Bundesministerium für Bildung und Forschung; BMBF) at the Project Management Agency of the German Aerospace Center (Deutsches Zentrum für Luft- und Raumfahrt-Projektträger; DLR-PT). She joined DLR-PT as Senior Scientific Officer (2011–2012), with a focus on multilateral science and technology development in Asia and Oceania. From 2013, she served as Deputy Head of the Department for Cooperation with Asia and Oceania; Head of the Cooperation with East Asia and Oceania Unit; and as Coordinator of the European Commission’s EURAXESS Worldwide initiative facilitating the mobility of scientists.

Before joining DLR-PT, Dr. Shen worked with UNU-EHS as a Resident Scholar and PhD Researcher (2004–2008), and thereafter as an Associate Academic Officer (2008–2010) with a focus on social vulnerability, environmentally induced migration issues and water–related disaster and risk research from cultural perspectives.

Dr. Shen holds a BA degree from the Beijing Foreign Studies University, a MA degree from the University of Bonn, and a PhD degree from the University of Bonn/UNU-EHS, with a focus on flood risk perception and communication in different cultural contexts. She is co-author of a recent comparative study on German and Chinese innovation systems (“EFI-Studie 9-2020: Vergleich der Innovationssysteme China und Deutschland. Studien zum deutschen Innovationssystem”) for the Commission of Experts for Research and Innovation, established by the German Federal Government.

She is a Chinese national and is fluent in German and English.
Dr. Vivienne Ming
Co-founder & Executive Chair, Socos Labs

Bio: https://rfkhumanrights.org/people/dr-vivienne-ming

Dr. Vivienne Ming is a theoretical neuroscientist, entrepreneur, and author frequently featured for her research and inventions in The Financial Times, The Atlantic, Quartz and the New York Times. She co-founded Socos Labs, her fifth company, an independent think tank exploring the future of human potential. Ming launched Socos Labs to combine her varied work with that of other creative experts and expand their impact on global policy issues, both inside companies and throughout our communities. Previously, she was a visiting scholar at UC Berkeley’s Redwood Center for Theoretical Neuroscience, pursuing her research in cognitive neuroprosthetics. In her free time, Ming has invented AI systems to help treat her diabetic son, predict manic episodes in bipolar sufferers weeks in advance, and reunited orphan refugees with extended family members. She sits on the boards of numerous companies and nonprofits including StartOut, The Palm Center, Cornerstone Capital, Platypus Institute, Shiftgig, Zoic Capital, and SmartStones. Ming also speaks frequently on her AI-driven research into inclusion and gender in business. For relaxation, she is a wife and mother of two.

Dr. Uma Rani
Senior Economist at the Research Department, International Labour Office (ILO)

Uma Rani is Senior Economist at the Research Department and joined the International Institute of Labour Studies, International Labour Organization (ILO) in 2008. After completing her Doctoral thesis in Development Economics from University of Hyderabad, India, she held academic positions in India and Visiting Fellow positions at Institute of Developing Economies, Japan; ETH-NADEL, Zürich and Institut de Recherche pour le Developpment, Paris to conduct research on informal employment, precarious and non-standard forms of work.
At the ILO, she has led research projects on minimum wages, income inequality, global supply chains in the electronics sector, wherein she explores how labour and social institutions could be strengthened to address economic and social inequality, and improve the working conditions of the workers. Since 2016 she has been doing research on digital economy and brought out a major co-authored report in 2018 on Digital labour platforms and the future of work: Towards decent work in the online world. She is currently leading the major flagship report of the ILO on “Ensuring decent work and fair competition on digital labour platforms”.

Dr. Raul Katz
President, Telecom Advisory Services LLC

As an international telecom industry consulting executive, Dr. Raul Katz has provided direction to CEOs and other top management of major telecommunications, software and information services companies in the areas of business strategy, consumer/industrial marketing and general management approaches. He managed projects in the areas of demand forecasting, scenario planning, competitive analysis, market entry strategy, churn management and new product development. Dr. Katz conducted assignments in the United States, Europe, Asia, the Middle East and Latin America. In addition, Dr. Katz has worked extensively in the design of organizations, management processes and best practices of telecommunications enterprises. In addition, Dr. Katz has worked with governments and international organizations in the development of regulatory frameworks and policies, National Broadband Plans and National Technology Strategies. In particular, he has supported the governments of Colombia, Costa Rica, and Brazil. He is currently President of Telecom Advisory Services, a boutique firm that advises clients in the interrelated fields of strategy and regulation. He was previously CEO of Adventis, a telecommunications consulting company with offices in New York, Boston, London, Berlin and Shanghai. Before joining Adventis, he was a Lead Partner at Booz Allen Hamilton, where he was a member of the firm’s Leadership Team and Head of the US and Latin America telecommunication practices. Dr. Katz received his Ph.D. in Management Science and Political Science and an M.S. in Communications Technology and Policy from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In addition, he holds a Licence in History and a Maîtrise in Political Science from the University of Paris-Sorbonne, as well as a Licence and a Maîtrise (with honors) in Communication Sciences from the University of Paris. He is a Director of Business Strategy Research at Columbia University’s Center for Tele-Information, an Adjunct Professor in Columbia Business Scholl Division of Finance and Economics, and a Visiting Professor at the Universidad de San Andres in Argentina. He currently teaches courses on Competitive Strategy for High Technology Companies, and Consulting in the Telecommunications and Media Industries. Dr. Katz has published articles in journals such as Telecommunications Policy, Telephony, Strategy and Business, Communications and Strategies, Interconomics, America’s Network and The Information Society. His book The Information
Society: an International Perspective, focusing on the deregulation trends in the worldwide telecommunications industry was published in 1988. His book Creative Destruction: Business Survival Strategies in the Global Internet Economy, addressing recent discontinuities in the telecommunications industry, was published in 2000, and translated into Japanese. His book The Role of ICT in Development was published in 2010. He is fluent in English, French and Spanish. He currently lives in New York and has lived in France, in addition to his native country of Argentina.

Prof. Erika Kraemer-Mbula
Professor of Economics, DST/NRF/Newton Fund Trilateral Chair in Transformative Innovation, the 4IR and Sustainable Development, Johannesburg Business School

Bio:

Erika is Professor of Economics at the University of Johannesburg, South Africa. Her work focuses on alternative development paths for African economies. She specialises in the analysis of innovation systems in connection to equitable development and inclusive development, and has done pioneering work on innovation in the African informal sector.

Trained as an Economist, she holds a Masters in Science and Technology Policy by the Science and Policy Research Unit (University of Sussex), and a doctorate in Development Studies from the University of Oxford. Besides her academic work, Erika has undertaken a range of advisory assignments with international institutions (such as IDRC, TWAS, UNIDO, UNESCO, UNICEF, among others). Her experience in this area includes the evaluation of strategic innovation-related programmes of international donor organisations, designing and reviewing regional and national STI policies, as well as supporting the implementation of innovation strategies in African countries. In South Africa, she is currently an appointed member of the Advisory Committee of the Centre for Science, Technology, and Innovation Indicators (CeSTII), various Reference Groups at the National Advisory Council on Innovation (NACI), and a member of the Ministerial Advisory Committee on Post-Covid socio-economic recovery (for the Department of Science and Innovation). She is also a member of several research networks on innovation and development – such as Vice-president of Globelics, advisory board member of Africalics and Steering Committee member of OpenAIR.

Erika is currently the Chairholder of the DST/NRF/Newton Fund Trilateral Chair in Transformative Innovation, the Fourth Industrial Revolution and Sustainable Development, based at the College of Business and Economics (University of Johannesburg) and in partnership with ACTS and SPRU. Her research unit at the University of Johannesburg is formed by a dynamic team of national and international researchers that engages in cutting-edge research; builds the capacity of younger scholars to help develop the next generation of African thinkers leading transformative change; and engages with policy makers, key stakeholders and research partners, to influence policy change.

Dr. Vaqar Ahmed
Joint Executive Director, Sustainable Development Policy Institute (SDPI)

Bio: https://sdpi.org/team/dr-vaqar-ahmed/

Dr Ahmed serves in advisory capacity at many national, regional and international institutions and forums such as Fauji Foundation and Creative Cities project of the British Council Pakistan. He is also a member of steering committee of Southern Voice Think Tanks Network and council member of energy committee of National University of Science & Technology (NUST).

An honorary research fellow at Partnership for Economic Policy, University of Laval in Canada, he has earlier worked as an advisor to United Nations Development Program and as the head of macroeconomics section at the Ministry of Planning, Development and Special Initiatives. He has also done various assignments with Asian Development Bank, World Bank, United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific as well as with ministries of finance, planning and commerce.

He is also a visiting faculty member and researcher at different institutions, including University of Le Havre in France, National University of Ireland, IMT Institute of Advanced Studies in Italy, Quaid-e-Azam University Islamabad and Pakistan Institute of Trade and Development.

His research work on inclusive growth, trade, public finance and sustainable development has been published extensively and he has received fellowships from Germany’s Zeit-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, France’s Young Leaders Programme and IMF’s Civil Society Organizatins initiative.

He holds a PhD in economics.
Ms. Tildy Stokes
Co-Founder of the All-Party Parliamentary Group for Future Generations and Freelance Political Consultant on Extreme Risks

Tildy is a freelance consultant working for politicians and nonprofits in the area of extreme risks, with a particular focus on the risks of artificial intelligence. She hosts private events focused on AI governance and policy. Previously, she co-founded the UK All-Party Parliamentary Group for Future Generations and has worked for MPs and Peers across the political spectrum to try and improve the UK’s preparedness for extreme risks. She studied politics at the University of Cambridge.

Mr. Dan Smith
Director, Stockholm International, Peace Research Institute

Bio: https://sipri.org/about/bios/dan-smith

Dan Smith is the Director of SIPRI. He has a long record of research and publication on a wide range of conflict and peace issues. Among other issues, he has studied and written on the relationship between climate change and insecurity, peace and security issues in the Middle East, peacebuilding, the ethics of forcible intervention in conflicts, gender and conflict, nuclear arms control and strategy, and global conflict drivers, dynamics and trends. Smith served four years in the UN Peacebuilding Fund Advisory group, two of which (2010–2011) were as Chair. He has an intimate knowledge of how peacebuilding works (or doesn’t) in a wide variety of countries and regions.

He was part-time Professor of Peace and Conflict at the University of Manchester, attached to the Humanitarian and Conflict Response Institute from January 2014 to mid-2017 and continues with an Honorary Professorship today. He is the author of successive editions of atlases of politics, war and peace, and the Middle East and blogs on international politics at www.dansmithsblog.com.
He has lived most of his adult life in the UK with a 10-year spell in Norway. He has travelled professionally to more than 60 countries.

SUBJECT EXPERTISE: Wide range of conflict and peace issues such as nationalism, identity politics, armed conflicts, ethics of intervention, gender aspects of conflict and peace building, relationship between climate change and insecurity

AFFILIATIONS:
- Chair, Advisory Group, UN Peacebuilding Fund, 2010–11
- Member, Advisory Group, UN Peacebuilding Fund, 2007–9

Prof. Mary Kaldor
Professor Emerita of Global Governance and Director of the Conflict Research Programme, London School of Economics

Bio: https://www.lse.ac.uk/international-development/people/mary-kaldor

Mary Kaldor is a Professor of Global Governance and Director of the Conflict and Civil Society Research Unit in the LSE Department of International Development. Professor Kaldor also directs the unit’s largest research project, the Conflict Research Programme (CRP), an international DFID-funded partnership investigating public authority, through a theoretical lens of the political marketplace and the concept of civicness, across a range of countries in Africa and the Middle East.

Professor Kaldor is highly regarded for her innovative work on democratisation, conflict, and globalisation. She was a founding member of European Nuclear Disarmament (END), a founder and Co-Chair of the Helsinki Citizen’s Assembly and a member of the International Independent Commission to investigate the Kosovo Crisis, established by the Swedish Prime Minister.

Professor Kaldor pioneered the concept of new wars and global civil society and her work on the practical implementation of human security has directly influenced European and national politics. Her books include: The Baroque Arsenal, New and Old Wars: Organised Violence in a Global Era, Global Civil Society: An Answer to War and Human Security: Reflections on Globalization and Intervention. She is also the editor and co-author of the annual Global Civil Society Yearbook. Her most recent book International Law and New Wars, co-authored with Professor Christine Chinkin, was published in May 2017. At the request of Javier Solana, she was Convener for the Study Group on European Security Capabilities, which produced the influential Barcelona report, ‘A Human Security Doctrine for Europe’.

Professor Kaldor has been awarded Honorary Professorships at the University of Sussex and Corvinus University, Budapest, and holds the 2015 Ludvig Quidde Award for academic achievement in the field of peace.
In 2003, Professor Kaldor’s work was recognised with the receipt of Commander of the British Empire (CBE) for 'services to democracy and global governance'.

Prof. Michael Barnett
Professor of International Affairs and Political Science, Elliott School of International Affairs, George Washington University

Bio: https://elliott.gwu.edu/michael-barnett

Michael Barnett is University Professor of International Affairs and Political Science at the George Washington University. His research interests span the Middle East, humanitarianism, global governance, global ethics, and the United Nations. Among his many books are Eyewitness to a Genocide: The United Nations and Rwanda; Dialogues in Arab Politics: Negotiations in Regional Order; Empire of Humanity: A History of Humanitarianism; Rules for the World: International Organizations in World Politics (with Martha Finnemore); Security Communities (co-edited with Emanuel Adler); Sacred Aid (co-edited with Janice Stein); Power and Global Governance (co-edited with Raymond Duvall); and Humanitarianism in Question (co-edited with Thomas Weiss). His most recent books include The Star and the Stripes: A History of the Foreign Policies of the American Jews; Paternalism Beyond Borders; and, most recently, the edited collection Humanitarianism and Human Rights: Worlds of Differences?

His current research projects include an edited volume and the changing forms of global governance (to be published by Cambridge University Press), hierarchies in humanitarian governance; the end of the two state-solution and the rise of the one-state reality in Israel/Palestine; and the relationship between suffering and progress in the liberal international order.

A former Associate Editor of International Organization, he previously taught at the University of Minnesota, the University of Wisconsin, Macalester College, Wellesley College, and the Hebrew University of Jerusalem; was a visiting scholar at the New School for Social Research and the Dayan Center at Tel-Aviv University; and was a Visiting Professor at the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva, Switzerland. Professor Barnett is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and the recipient of many grants and awards for his research.
Dr. Toby Ord
Senior Research Fellow in Philosophy at Oxford University

Toby Ord is a Senior Research Fellow in Philosophy at Oxford University. His work focuses on the big picture questions facing humanity. What are the most important issues of our time? How can we best address them?

Toby’s earlier work explored the ethics of global health and global poverty, demonstrating that aid has been highly successful on average and has the potential to be even more successful if we were to improve our priority setting. This led him to create an international society called Giving What We Can, whose members have pledged over $1.5 billion to the most effective charities helping to improve the world. He also co-founded the wider effective altruism movement, encouraging thousands of people to use reason and evidence to help others as much as possible.

His current research is on the longterm future of humanity, and the risks which threaten to destroy our entire potential. His new book, The Precipice, explores these topics and concludes that safeguarding our future is among the most pressing and neglected issues we face.

Toby has advised the World Health Organization, the World Economic Forum, and the UK Prime Minister’s Office and Cabinet Office. His work has been featured hundreds of times in the national and international media.

Mr. Koji Makino
Deputy Director, JICA Ogata Sadako Research Institute for Peace and Development, Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA)

Mr. MAKINO Koji has been working at JICA since 1988. He is currently Deputy Director, JICA Ogata Sadako Research Institute for Peace and Development. He manages all research activities as No.2 of the Institute. His previous position was Director General (DG), Economic Development Department, JICA HQ. His specialty includes Human Security, poverty reduction and International aid architecture. He is a co-author of “Human security and poverty reduction” (2005), JICA Research Institute, and “Catalyzing Development” (2011), Brookings Institution Press.
Mr. Joaquin Salido Marcos
Programme Management Officer at the Conflict Prevention and Governance Cluster of the United Nations Regional Commission for Western Asia (ESCWA)

Joaquin Salido Marcos is a Programme Management Officer at the Conflict Prevention and Governance Cluster of the UN Regional Commission for Western Asia (ESCWA). His work examines the impact of conflict on development and human security in the Arab region. He is currently collaborating with the ViEWS project on its expansion to the Arab region. His portfolio also includes the monitoring of the Istanbul Plan of Action for the Least Developed Countries members of ESCWA. Prior to joining UN-ESCWA, Joaquin worked at the UN Regional Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) and the United Nations Office at Nairobi (UNON). Joaquin is a Political Scientist and Public Administration Graduate from the University of Salamanca (2008) and Masters’ in International Relations and European Studies from the College of Europe (2010).

Mrs. Manuella Nehme
Consultant on Human Development and Conflict, United Nations Regional Commission for Western Asia (ESCWA)

Mrs. Manuella Nehme is an economist, with research interests focusing on macroeconomics, development, and political economy. Among her recent projects, she worked as an economic research consultant at UN ESCWA on projects related to multidimensional poverty, human development and conflict in the Arab region. Mrs. Nehme holds a master’s degree in Applied Economics from the Lebanese American University (LAU).
Prof. Andreas Feldmann
Associate Professor, Department of Political Science
University of Illinois at Chicago

Bio: https://lals.uic.edu/profiles/andreas-feldmann/
Andreas E. Feldmann is an Associate Professor in the Latin American and Latino Studies Program and Department of Political Science and Principal Investigator of the Global Immigration Cluster Initiative at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC). He investigates topics in the intersection of comparative politics and international relations with a focus on Latin America. His research interests include forced migration, political violence and terrorism, human rights and South-South cooperation. He is the co-author of New Migration Patterns in the Americas: Challenges for the 21st Century (Palgrave 2018) and has published articles in journals including International Affairs, Politics and Society, Terrorism and Political Violence, Studies in Conflict and Terrorism, Forced Migration Review and Latin American Politics and Society, among others. Feldmann is currently working on a book manuscript Crime, Violence and States in Latin America (under contract, Elements Series Cambridge University Press) and co-editing the Routledge Handbook on Latin American Migration (under contract). Feldmann has received grants from the Ford Foundation (2020-2021), the International Development Research Centre (IDRC) (2006-2012), and worked as a consultant for the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) (2007-8) and the Inter-American Commission of Human Rights (2000–6), Estado de la Nación Costa Rica and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace (2014-). He previously worked at the Instituto de Ciencia Política of the Universidad Católica de Chile (2005‒2014) and the Human Rights Program of the University of Chicago (2003‒5). He earned a Ph.D. in political science at the University of Notre Dame.

Dr. Joana Monteiro
Head of the Center for Applied Research to Public Safety, Getulio Vargas Foundation, Rio de Janeiro

Bio: https://joanamonteiro.webs.com/
Joana is the head of research at the State’s Attorney Office of Rio de Janeiro and professor of evidence-based policy design at the Brazilian School of Public and Business Administration at Getulio Vargas Foundation (FGV/EBAPE). Between 2015 and 2018, she was the head of the Institute of Public Security (ISP), the government body responsible for disclosing and analyzing Rio de Janeiro’s crime and violence records. In her former position and at the State’s Attorney Office, Joana leads the agenda of use of evidence in the Criminal Justice area, having implemented projects to facilitate data analytics by policemen and to improve transparency to society. Joana holds a PhD and a MA in economics from the Catholic University of Rio de Janeiro (PUC-Rio). Between 2009 and 2012, she was a visiting research fellow at the Center for International Development at Harvard University. Joana is specialized in development economics and an expert in impact evaluation of public policies. Her research has been published in journals such as the Review of Economics and Statistics, Journal of Development Economics and the Security Journal.

Prof. Frances Stewart
Professor Emeritus of Development Economics, University of Oxford

Bio: https://www.qeh.ox.ac.uk/people/frances-stewart
Frances Stewart was Director of ODID from 1993-2003 and Director of the Centre for Research on Inequality, Human Security and Ethnicity (CRISE) at the department between 2003 and 2010. She has a DPhil from the University of Oxford and an honorary doctorate from the University of Sussex.

Among many publications, she is coauthor of UNICEF’s influential study, Adjustment with a Human Face (OUP 1987); War and Underdevelopment (OUP 2001); and leading author and editor of Horizontal Inequalities and Conflict: Understanding Group Violence in Multiethnic Societies (Palgrave, 2008). She has directed a number of major research programmes including several financed by the UK Government’s Department for International Development, and others by the Swedish Development Agency and the Carnegie Corporation.

An Emeritus Fellow of Somerville College, Oxford, Frances has acted as consultant for early Human Development Reports; she has been President of the Human Development and Capability Association; President of the British and Irish Development Studies Association; Chair of the United Nations Committee on Development Policy and Vice-Chair of the Board of the International Food Policy Research Institute.

She received the Leontief prize in 2013 for advancing the frontiers of economic thought from Tufts University. She was given the UNDP’s Mahbub ul Haq award for her lifetime’s achievements in promoting human development in 2009; and named one of fifty outstanding technological leaders for 2003 by Scientific American (Policy Leader in Economic Development Strategies for promoting anti-poverty campaigns to help quell armed conflicts in developing countries).
Prof. James Foster
Oliver T. Carr, Jr. Professor of International Affairs, Professor of Economics, and Co-Director of the Institute for International Economic Policy at George Washington University

Bio: https://elliott.gwu.edu/james-foster

James E. Foster is the Oliver T. Carr Professor of International Affairs and Professor of Economics at the George Washington University. James is Co-Director of the Institute for International Economic Policy.

James is also a Research Associate at the Oxford Poverty and Human Development Initiative at Oxford University. Professor Foster’s research focuses on welfare economics — using economic tools to evaluate and enhance the wellbeing of people. His joint 1984 Econometrica paper (with Joel Greer and Erik Thorbecke) is one of the most cited papers on poverty. It introduced the FGT Index, which has been used in thousands of studies and was employed in targeting the Progresa CCT program in Mexico. Other research includes work on economic inequality with Amartya Sen; on the distribution of human development with Luis Felipe Lopez-Calva and Miguel Szekely; on multidimensional poverty with Sabina Alkire; and on literacy with Kaushik Basu.

Professor Foster’s work underlies many well-known social indices including the global Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI) published annually by the UNDP in the Human Development Report, dozens of national MPIs used to guide domestic policy against poverty, the Women’s Empowerment in Agriculture Index (WEAI) at USAID, the Gross National Happiness Index of Bhutan, the Better Jobs Index of the InterAmerican Development Bank, and the Statistical Performance Index of the World Bank.

He received his Ph.D. in economics from Cornell University and holds a Doctorate Honoris Causa from Universidad Autónoma del Estado de Hidalgo (Mexico).
Prof. Staffan Lindberg
Founder and Director, Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem)

Bio: https://d-arch.org/team/

Staffan I. Lindberg is Professor of political science and Director of the V-Dem Institute at the University of Gothenburg. He is also founding Principal Investigator of Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem), Wallenberg Academy Fellow, author of Democracy and Elections in Africa (“Outstanding Academic Title”, Choice 2007) and editor of Democratization by Elections: A New Mode of Transition? His research also appears in over 50 academic publications. Lindberg has extensive experience as consultant on development and democracy, and as advisor to international organizations.

Areas of Expertise: elections and democratization, accountability, egalitarian democracy, clientelism, sequence analysis methods, women’s representation, voting behaviour.

Dr. Rachel Gisselquist
Senior Research Fellow, United Nations University World Institute for Development Economics Research (UNU-WIDER)

Bio: https://www.wider.unu.edu/expert/rachel-gisselquist

Rachel M. Gisselquist, a political scientist, is a Senior Research Fellow with the United Nations University World Institute for Development Economics Research (UNU-WIDER) and a member of the institute’s senior management team. She works on the politics of developing countries, with particular attention to inequality, ethnic politics, statebuilding and governance and the role of aid therein, democracy and democratization, and sub-Saharan African politics.

At UNU-WIDER, she currently leads the projects Addressing Group-based Inequalities and The State and Statebuilding in the Global South – International and Local Interactions, and co-leads the projects The Impact of Inequality on Growth, Human Development, and Governance @EQUAL, Clientelist Politics and Economic Development – Theories, Perspectives, and New Directions, and Effects of Swedish and International Democracy Support. She serves as Helsinki-based research focal point for the Southern Africa – Towards Inclusive Economic Development (SA-TIED) programme, and is a core member of the UNU-WIDER team in the African Cities Research Consortium. Under the institute’s previous research programmes, she was a focal point for The Politics of Group-Based

Her work is published in various journals and edited volumes, including World Development, Journal of Development Studies, Oxford Development Studies, Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Ethnic and Racial Studies, Social Indicators Research, Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies, Democratization, and International Peacekeeping. She is editor/co-editor of a dozen journal special issues and collections, and co-author of the first two editions of the Ibrahim Index of African Governance, which has become a standard reference on governance. Before moving to Helsinki, she spent three years at Harvard University as Research Director, Index of African Governance. She has also spent time at the London School of Economics and with the World Bank. She holds a PhD in Political Science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Master’s degree in Public Policy from Harvard University.

Lincoln C. Chen
President Emeritus, China Medical Board, USA

Dr. Lincoln Chen is President Emeritus of the China Medical Board, where he served as President 2006-2014. Started in 1914, the Board was endowed by John D. Rockefeller as an independent foundation that seeks to advance health in China and Asia by strengthening medical education, research, and policies.

In 2001-2006, Dr. Chen was the founding director of the Global Equity Initiative of Harvard University’s Asia Center. In an earlier decade, 1987-1996, Dr. Chen was the Taro Takemi Professor of International Health, Director of the university-wide Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies, and Chair of Department of Population and International Health in the Harvard School of Public Health. For the five years 1997-2001, Dr. Chen served as Executive Vice-President of the Rockefeller Foundation, and in 1973-1987, he represented the Ford Foundation in India and Bangladesh.

Dr. Chen has served as board-committee/advisor to many non-profit organizations – Greentree Foundation, BRAC/USA, CARE/USA, Harvard FXB Center for Health and Human Rights, and the Institute for Health Metrics and Evaluation, University of Washington. In 2004-2007, he was the Special Envoy of the WHO Director-General in Human Resources for Health, and in 2006, he was elected the first Board Chair of the Global Health Workforce Alliance, a public-private partnership with a secretariat based at the World Health Organization in Geneva.

Dr. Chen is a member of the National Academy of Sciences’ Institute of Medicine, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the Council on Foreign Relations. He graduated from Princeton University (BA), Harvard Medical School (MD), and the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health (MPH). He was trained in internal medicine at the Massachusetts General Hospital.
Dr. Racha Ramadan
Associate Professor at the Economics Department, Faculty of Economics and Political Science (FEPS), Cairo University

Bio: https://www.econometricsociety.org/users/dr-racha-ramadan/1559813

Racha Ramadan, is an Associate professor at the Economics Department, Faculty of Economics and Political Science, Cairo University, where she did her undergraduate studies. She got her Ph.D. in Economics, in April 2010, from Toulouse School of Economics, under the supervision of Professor Alban Thomas. During her stay in France (2004-2007 and 2008-2010), she worked as teaching assistant in Toulouse University (Université Toulouse 1-Capitole) and as research assistant in Toulouse Business School. In 2008, she worked as research assistant in International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI) in Washington, D.C. for nine months. From August 2010 to 2015, she worked as an economic consultant for different international organizations such as the UNDP-Regional Office in Cairo, World Bank, UN-ESCWA and UN-FAO. She was a visiting scholar in Hamburg University in Germany during October 2012 and in Chicago University Center in Paris from April 2013 to June 2013. During the Spring semester of 2014, she was a visiting scholar at the Humphrey School of Public Affairs, Minnesota University, working under the supervision of Professor Ragui Assaad. Her research interests include applied micro-econometrics on poverty, food security, gender and human development in Egypt and other developing countries.

Prof. Prof. Siri Aas Rustad
Research Director, Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO)

Bio: https://www.prio.org/People/Person/?x=4693

Prof. Siri Aas Rustad is the Research Director and a full Research Professor, Conditions for Violence and Peace, at the Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO).

Her research interests include conflict data and trends, human consequences of conflicts, and conflict, natural resources, and the environment.

She holds a PhD in Sociology and Political Science from the Norwegian University of Science and Technology.
Prof. Oscar A. Gómez
Assistant Professor, College of Asia Pacific Studies, Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University, Beppu, Japan
Bio: https://researcher.apu.ac.jp/apuhp/KgApp?resId=S001592&Language=2
Education:
Human Security, Graduate School Division of Human and Environmental Studies, Tohoku University, Completed, Doctoral degree (Environmental Studies)
Human Security, Graduate School Division of Human and Environmental Studies, Tohoku University, Completed, Master degree (Environmental Studies)
Chemical Engineering, Faculty of Engineering, National University of Colombia, Graduated
Current specialized field: International Relations, Disasters, Environmental policy (Key Word: Global governance, human security, humanitarianism, constructivism, disasters, displacement, epidemics, famine, international cooperation, climate change, adaptation, development, crisis, emergency, nexus, East Asia, Latin America, ethics)

---

Prof. Anne-Marie Slaughter
CEO of New America and Bert G. Kerstetter ’66 University Professor Emerita of Politics and International Affairs, Princeton University
Bio: https://scholar.princeton.edu/slaughter/home
Anne-Marie Slaughter is the CEO of New America, a think and action tank dedicated to renewing the promise of America, bringing us closer to our nation’s highest ideals. She is also the Bert G. Kerstetter ’66 University Professor Emerita of Politics and International Affairs at Princeton University. From 2009–2011, she served as director of policy planning for the United States Department of State, the first woman to hold that position. Upon leaving the State Department she received the Secretary’s Distinguished Service Award for her work leading the Quadrennial Diplomacy and Development Review, as well as meritorious service awards from USAID and the Supreme Allied Commander for Europe. Prior to her government service, Dr. Slaughter was the Dean of Princeton University’s School of Public and International Affairs (formerly the Woodrow Wilson School) from 2002–2009 and the J. Sinclair Armstrong Professor of International, Foreign, and Comparative Law at Harvard Law School from 1994-2002.
Dr. Slaughter has written or edited eight books, including The Chessboard and the Web: Strategies of Connection in a Networked World (2017), Unfinished Business: Women, Men, Work, Family (2015), The Idea That Is America: Keeping Faith with Our Values in a Dangerous World (2007), and A New World Order (2004), as well as over 100 scholarly articles. She was the convener and academic co-chair, with Professor John Ikenberry, of the Princeton Project on National Security, a multi-year research project aimed at developing a new, bipartisan national security strategy for the United States. In 2012 she published the article “Why Women Still Can’t Have It All,” in the Atlantic, which quickly became the most read article in the history of the magazine and helped spawn a renewed national debate on the continued obstacles to genuine full male-female equality.

Dr. Slaughter is a contributing editor to the Financial Times and writes a bi-monthly column for Project Syndicate. She provides frequent commentary for both mainstream and new media and curates foreign policy news for over 160,000 followers on Twitter. Foreign Policy magazine named her to their annual list of the Top 100 Global Thinkers in 2009, 2010, 2011, and 2012. She received a B.A. from Princeton, an M.Phil and D.Phil in international relations from Oxford, where she was a Daniel M. Sachs Scholar, and a J.D. from Harvard. She is married to Professor Andrew Moravcsik; they have two sons.

Prof. Des Gasper
Professor of Human Development, Development Ethics and Public Policy, ISS of Erasmus University Rotterdam

Des Gasper is Professor emeritus of Human Development, Development Ethics and Public Policy at the International Institute of Social Studies (ISS), The Hague, part of Erasmus University Rotterdam (NL). After studying economics, international development and public policy in universities in Britain he worked for almost a decade in Southern Africa and then joined ISS. His work on human security has included a number of pieces for UNDP/UNTFHS (e.g., 2013, with O.A. Gomez and Y. Mine: Good Practices in Addressing Human Security through National Human Development Reports, http://hdr.undp.org/sites/default/files/good_practices.pdf) and two books focused on migration: Transnational Migration and Human Security (2011) and Migration, Gender and Social Justice: Perspectives on human insecurity (2014), both co-edited with T. D. Truong and published by Springer. He recently prepared a background paper on ‘Human Security Thinking for ASEAN Inclusive and Sustainable Development’, for the ASEAN Development Outlook.
Prof. Anne-Marie Goetz
Clinical Professor, Center for Global Affairs, New York University (NYU)

Dr. Goetz has been Clinical Professor at CGA since January 2014. She served at the United Nations since 2005 as a Policy Director of Governance, Peace and Security, first at UNIFEM and since 2011 at UN Women. She was a Professorial Fellow in Political Science at the Institute of Development Studies, University of Sussex where she worked since 1991. She also served the United Nations Development Programme in Chad and Guinea in the mid-1980s. While at the UN Dr. Goetz spearheaded initiatives to promote women’s empowerment in the UN’s peace building work in post-conflict situations, and to support women’s organizations’ efforts to participate in peace talks and post-conflict decision-making. She spearheaded initiatives to ensure that the Security Council addresses sexual violence in conflict as a tactic of warfare, and to build peacekeepers’ capacities to detect and prevent these abuses.

Dr. Goetz is a political scientist studying how development policies in fragile states promote the interests of marginalized social groups, particularly poor women. She was researched democratization and good governance reforms in South Asia and East Africa. This has included research on pro-poor and gender-sensitive approaches to public sector reforms, anti-corruption initiatives, and decentralization, and political liberalization and state building in fragile states and post-conflict situations.

Professor Goetz is the author of seven books on the subjects of gender, politics and policy in developing countries, and on accountability reforms – including the 2009 edited volume: Governing Women: Women in Politics and Governance in Developing Countries (Routledge), and the UNIFEM flagship report: Who Answers to Women? Gender and Accountability. Professor Goetz has also engaged advisory work related to gender, democratization, and governance, including direct advisory work for developing country governments, for multilateral economic institutions and bilateral donors, and for NGOs. She is on the editorial board of the Oxfam journal "Gender and Development," is a Board member of the NGO Gender at Work, and is a member of UN Women’s ‘Champions of Women Peace & Security and Human Rights’ group.
Prof. Toshiya Hoshino
Osaka School of International Public Policy, Osaka University

Bio: https://www.dk.emb-japan.go.jp/culture/Hoshino%20cv.htm

Mrs. Alison Fahey
Interim Executive Director, J-PAL Middle East and North Africa

Bio: https://www.povertyactionlab.org/person/fahey
Alison Fahey is the Interim Executive Director of J-PAL Middle East and North Africa. She leads J-PAL’s newest regional office based at The American University in Cairo, guiding strategy and growth for the office’s research, policy, capacity building, and operations teams, and forging partnerships for evidence generation and use with innovative policymakers across the MENA region. J-PAL MENA aims to improve the effectiveness of social programs and reduce poverty by ensuring policy is informed by rigorous evidence.
Alison also anchors the Governance, Conflict, and Crime Initiative, a research and policy program that supports J-PAL’s Crime and Violence Initiative, J-PAL’s Governance Initiative, and IPA’s Peace & Recovery Program.
Prior to joining J-PAL in 2014, Alison worked in a variety of positions related to service delivery, economic growth, and decentralization with USAID in Afghanistan and Jordan, and with the World Bank in Indonesia. Alison was a Fulbright Scholar in Jordan and she holds an M.P.A. in International Development from Princeton University.

Dr Ambrose Otau Talisuna, MBchB, Msc, DLSHTM, PhD

Regional Advisor International Health Regulations and Global Health Security, World Health Organization (WHO) Regional Office for Africa

Dr Ambrose Otau Talisuna is a medical doctor, epidemiologist and public health expert in international health. He has worked in diverse health arenas, including communicable disease prevention and control, malaria prevention and control, health information systems, outbreak investigation and response, health systems, health services management, surveillance, monitoring and evaluation for over 25 years at national and international level.

Ambrose has a bachelor’s degree in medicine and surgery (MBchB) from Makerere University, Kampala, Uganda, a master’s degree (MSc) in epidemiology from the University of London-London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, and a PhD, in medical sciences from the University of Antwerp and Institute of Tropical Medicine, Antwerp, Belgium. He was awarded a post-graduate diploma of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (DLSHTM) in epidemiology. He is presently pursuing a master’s degree in business administration-leadership and sustainability (MBALS) at the Robert Kennedy College and University of Cumbria. He has post-graduate training in public sector leadership and management, advanced monitoring and evaluation of health systems from the International Law Institute, Washington, DC, USA, medical informatics, advanced epidemiology and biostatistics and HIV/AIDS from the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health, Baltimore, USA, clinical trials management from Vienna.

Top areas of expertise: International Health Regulations and Global Health Security, Communicable disease prevention and control, epidemiological surveillance, outbreak investigation and response and health systems performance assessment and strengthening, monitoring and evaluation. For most of his career he has held senior level positions at the Ministry of Health in Uganda, the institute of Tropical medicine in Antwerp, Belgium and at international organizations such as the Medicines for Malaria Venture (MMV), the Worldwide Antimalarial Resistance Network (WWARN), the University of Oxford and the World Health Organisation(WHO). Over the years, Ambrose has acquired deep and broad management and leadership competencies at national and international level. He has accumulated diverse technical expertise in communicable disease control, epidemiology, surveillance, outbreak investigation and response, incident management, technical appraisal, monitoring and evaluation, international health regulations, health systems strengthening and performance assessment, health services management, health management information systems, malaria prevention and control, antimalarial drug resistance, antimicrobial resistance, pharmacovigilance and adverse reactions monitoring, strategy and policy development, and financial management and accountability.

Ambrose has led and supervised diverse multi-cultural teams at national and international level and established several linkages with stakeholders in the south (south to south) and in the north (South to North) networks. He has good oral and written communications skills that are reflected in numerous keynote addresses and speeches that he has delivered at national and international conferences. He has published over 100 papers in peer reviewed journals.

Prof. Shahrbanou Tadjbakhsh
Researcher and Lecturer, Sciences Po, Paris School of International Affairs

_Bio:_ https://www.sciencespo.fr/psia/content/shahrbanou-tadjbakhsh.html

Shahrbanou Tadjbakhsh is a researcher, university lecturer and consultant based in Paris and specializing on human security, peacebuilding and radicalization, with geographic specialization in Central Asia and Afghanistan. She teaches at Sciences Po within the Paris School of International Affairs and runs a month long course on Human Security at the Summer School. Between 2006 and 2016 she led the Specialization on Human Security at the Master’s of Public Affairs (MPA). Since 2010, she has been working as a consultant for the UN Regional Center for Preventive Diplomacy in Central Asia (UNRCCA) and the UN Counter Terrorism Implementation Task Force (CTITF) engaged in the preparation and then implementation of the Action Plan for the Implementation of the UN Global Counter Terrorism Strategy in Central Asia. Between 2010 and 2016, she was a Research Associate with the Peace Research Institute Oslo (PRIO) working on the ethics of liberal peacebuilding, on regional security complexes and on radicalization. Since 2014, she has been the Academic Advisor to the Afghan Institute of Strategic Studies (AISS) and has provided guidance for the research and publication of a series of papers on radicalization in Afghanistan (in universities, in madrassas, in social media and in the police force).

Prior to moving to Paris to teach at Sciences Po, she taught at Columbia University (New York) as an adjunct professor and has been a visiting professor or researcher at universities in Kabul, New Delhi, Pretoria, Moscow and Dushanbe. Between 1993-2003, she worked at the United Nations Development Program (UNDP), working at the Regional Bureau for Europe and the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS), based in Tashkent (Uzbekistan) and in Bratislava (Slovakia) covering 27 countries of the region. She also worked at the Human Development Report Office at UNDP Headquarters in New York where she set up the National Human Development Report (NHDR) Unit in 2000 and ran a Community of Practice Network on Human Development. After leaving the UN in 2003, she contributed to the preparation of National Human Development Reports and was editor of reports in South Eastern Europe, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Iraq, Iran and Nepal and has worked with teams preparing the reports for Bosnia and Herzegovina, Djibouti and Kazakhstan among others. She has helped prepare the Reports on the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) for Azerbaijan (2013), Uzbekistan (2014) and Tajikistan (2014). She has been collaborating extensively with the Human Security Unit at the UN in New York, for which she prepared a training manual for operationalizing the human security concept and has contributed to the Reports of the UN Secretary General on Human Security which led to a General Assembly Resolution in 2012.

Tadjbakhsh has further collaborated with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Afghanistan, which chairs the Heart of Asia/Istanbul process, for whom she prepared a white paper on radicalization in the Heart of Asia countries in 2014. She further helped produce the Plan of Action for Implementing the UN Security Council Resolution 1325 on Women, Peace and Security for Afghanistan between 2013-2014. In 2013, she prepared a background paper for the Office of the High Commissioner for National Minorities (HCNM) of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) on the potential inter and intra-state ethnic conflicts in Central Asia and in northern Afghanistan. Other research collaboration has included with PRIO on the project on ‘Ethics of Liberal Peace’ and with the Spanish think tank FRIDE (Fundación para las Relaciones Internacionales y el Diálogo Exterior) on a project on the Implementation of Chapter VII Resolutions at the Security Council, with a case study on Afghanistan. Between 2007-2008, she and ran a one year joint research project between the Institute of Political Studies (Sciences Po) and Kabul University researching on differences in perceptions on peacebuilding based on liberal values in Afghanistan and its alternatives.

Tadjbakhsh holds a Bachelor's Degree from Georgetown University (1987) a Master's Degree (1991) and a Doctoral Degree (1994) from Columbia University. She is Iranian-American and a resident of France.

Mr. Pablo Ruiz Hiebra
Senior Peacebuilding Advisor, UNDP Colombia

Pablo Ruiz has worked in the areas of governance, crisis prevention and recovery for more than 20 years, as Manager or Senior Advisor at the United Nations. He was Country Director for UNDP in Colombia (2017-2019), supporting the implementation of the Peace Process. He was UN senior advisor in the post-crisis recovery processes in Lebanon, Sri Lanka and Haiti, where he coordinated various political initiatives and inter-agency projects. During his assignment with the Crisis Prevention and Recovery Office in Geneva, he facilitated UNDP’s support to the humanitarian response of the Indian Ocean Tsunami. He is co-author of various publications, including the Human Development Report in Haiti La bonne gouvernance: un défi pour le développement humain durable and the Global Report Disaster Risk Reduction: A Challenge for Development.
From UNDP’s Regional Centre in Panama, he led regional projects and the regional technical advising of 20 countries, for matters on governance and peacebuilding. This included political analysis, inclusion of vulnerable groups, dialogue and conflict prevention. Before joining the UN, he worked with universities, Chambers of Commerce, research institutes and national NGO’s. Pablo Ruiz has a Degree in Law (Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Spain), and Community Law (Université de Rouen, France) and a PhD in International Economy and Development (Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Spain).